

TITLE IX

ENOUGH is ENOUGH

Combating Sexual Assault on NY's College Campuses

New York's Enough is Enough initiative serves to help combat sexual assault on all New York college and university campuses.

THE LAW COMBATS SEXUAL ASSAULT ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES BY CREATING:

- Statewide definition of affirmative consent as a knowing, voluntary, and mutual decision among all participants to engage in sexual activity
- Statewide amnesty policy encouraging students to report incidents of sexual assault or other sexual violence by granting immunity for certain campus policy violations, such as drug and alcohol use
- Students' Bill of Rights, which campuses will be required to distribute to all students, informing sexual violence victims of their legal rights and available resources

- Comprehensive training requirement for administrators, staff, and students, including at new student orientations
- Requirement for campuses to annually submit incidents of reported sexual violence to the State Education Department to be made publicly available on their website
- Support within the State Police, specializing in response to sexual assaults and related crimes and training of local law enforcement
- Requirement for first responders to notify survivors of their right to contact outside law enforcement
